Highlights

New SFX Task Manager Admin Section to Manage and Schedule Maintenance Tasks

The new SFX Task Manager allows you to manage maintenance tasks for the local SFX instance that were previously managed from a command line (via server_admin_util) via the SFX Admin Center. With the new Task Manager, you can schedule, view, and edit tasks, and check the status of previously run maintenance tasks.

All tasks available for scheduling in the Server Admin Utility can be set up via Task Manager. These include RSI and A-Z index building, server clean-up, and exporting and importing options. Before you can use Task Manager for the first time, you need to migrate your existing cron jobs to allow these to be tracked via Task Manager. The migration can be started from the Task Manager interface.

Note that using Task Manager is optional – it is possible to continue using the Server Admin Utility. However, customers using Task Manager are recommended to not use the Server Admin Utility for setting up or viewing a list of scheduled tasks, because some features, such as enabling/disabling scheduled tasks, are not supported from the Server Admin Utility. Disabled tasks do not appear in the list of scheduled tasks in the Server Admin Utility.

Tasks that are run centrally for a server using the Centralized Management of Maintenance tasks feature, for example, by cloud services for cloud customers, are displayed in the Task Manager of your local instance as read-only.

Server time information has been added at the top of the SFX Admin Center page to make it easier to schedule tasks according to server time.

For more information about the Task Manager, refer to the SFX System Administrator Guide.

Enhance Ebsco Target Linking Using the Ebsco API

SFX can now use an API on EBSCOHOST to pre-check the availability of an item and retrieve the direct URL. This mechanism improves the availability indication where not all articles in a particular issue are available on the EBSCO platform.

SFX will only show the full text link if the API provides a positive response. In addition, the retrieved URL increases the accuracy of links, especially if there is more than one article published on the same page. SFX uses a plug-in to retrieve the response from EBSCO full text targets, based on information in the OpenURL.

Specifically it helps with:

- metadata mismatches between OpenURL sources and Ebsco targets
- incomplete coverage in some Ebsco targets (only some articles are available in Ebsco in full text, not the complete issue)

For more information about the use of the EBSCO API, refer to the Plug-in Feature section of the SFX Advanced User Guide and the SFX Target Configuration Guide.
